Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 23 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Broken cloud and warm sunny spells on Thursday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Dry, warm and sunny this evening. Then continuing dry overnight with clear skies and light winds. It will become rather cool again overnight, especially in rural areas. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Thursday:
Dry with sunny spells, and feeling generally warm by the afternoon. Cloud will tend to increase later with chance of a few heavy afternoon showers, some continuing overnight. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Rather cloudy at times with occasional rain or showers, perhaps thundery, on Friday and Saturday. Some warmer sunny intervals between showers. Possibly becoming drier later on Sunday, occasionally sunny.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.